

I am in favor of the ARRL's proposal. I know several young people who would like to become amateur radio operators but who find the current Technician class test too difficult. I believe if they had their novice licenses they would benefit and in the future perhaps learn more and obtain advanced ranks. Thanks.